

Zero waste

First Thursdays Return! Zero waste – what does it take?

Thursday 3 September 2009, Alara Wholefoods NW1 0PF, 5:30 for 6pm start

The time has come for waste to be slashed down to zero. This month we tackle the topic of Zero Waste with a field trip, no less! Come join us at LCRN member Alara Wholefoods, a zero waste establishment in the heart of Kings Cross:

- Senior Manager Alex Smith will be taking us on a tour of the warehouse and explaining what his company does to ensure nothing goes to landfill.
- Dr. Victoria Hands and Chantal Beaudoin from the London School of Economics will present about their award winning 'Towards Zero Waste' programme for halls of residence, bringing together experiences from across the UK since 1999.
- Maxine Narburgh from Bright Green will be joining us to speak about the future of zero waste Europe.
- Information on the renewed 'Towards Zero Waste' grant funding, available for Local Authorities to use in their communities.

All our presenters will show you the practical path to zero waste and you will leave knowing what it'll take to get your organisation on the right track.

Food and drink (alcoholic & non) will be provided in Alara's lovely back garden and patio.
